Expansion . . .

It all started with Martin Hall a long time ago. Ninety years is a lot of time for growing, and the University has grown; haphazardly, leisurely. Brick and stone, ivy and traditions. A growth from a few buildings to an educational giant standing by the Monongahela. A living heart, a great heart, beating slowly, steadily.

And as the campus skyline changes, we are able to see the growth. Slightly before us came Armstrong Hall, Physics Building, and Brooks Hall. The top of the Library was completed. The Health Center became a reality and the University received the Cafeteria and a rather permanent "temporary" Mountainlair building.

In our midst came more expansion and plans. The Journalism School achieved its own headquarters. The Music Building was completed, as was New Hall for women. Fire played havoc with Mechanical Hall, giving us two new aluminum structures to serve as a temporary home for engineers. The heating plant for the new med center is finished. The Basic Sciences Building is nearing completion, and a capital land improvement was made with the obtaining of the Evansdale Campus.

To become an eventual reality are numerous plans now in the mill. The state legislature has authorized the issue of revenue bonds to finance construction of new agriculture and engineering colleges. The University Teaching Hospital will be completed. Construction will begin on the approved plans for a new bookstore. In time, the now-proposed Men's Hall extension will be realized, and Mountainlair will have a new union building.

Years of expansion. Before us, in our midst, and to come. The gears mesh and move, and a great University grows.

GOVERNOR
STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA

Graduating Seniors
West Virginia University

My dear Seniors:

It is indeed a personal honor for me to bring you greetings in behalf of the people of West Virginia and to participate in your commencement activities.

You are graduating into an unparalleled era of opportunity. Never has a greater need existed for professionally trained young people.

West Virginia stands on the threshold of unprecedented growth and development. It has become a center of attraction for modern industrial expansion, which will increase the demand for trained personnel. I hope you will remain here to help with the building of a greater state.

Also, I hope you will share with us the desire to build our University to even higher levels of achievement in the educational world.

My best wishes attend all of you.

Very sincerely,

Cecil H. Underwood

Student Government

The University's student government acts as the most powerful voice some 6,000 students have in the functioning of the University.

Started in 1921, and reorganized under a new constitution in 1952, student government provides for three separate departments of governmental activity: the student executive council, the student legislature, and the student court.

The purpose of student government is to sponsor and organize activities and projects, help co-ordinate the work of other campus groups, represent the student body to the faculty, administration and off-campus groups, and to provide students with experience in organization, human relations and democratic self-government.

Through newsletters, open meetings, and suggestion sessions, student government establishes a closer liaison with the students. Increasing in efficiency, activity, and responsiveness to student needs, student government is growing in its role as the representative of the entire student body.

FRESHMAN ELECTIONS, sponsored by Student Government, are watched quite closely by the upperclassmen . . . their motives being several.

"Beat Pitt" 3,000 times.

Executive Council

Composed of the president and vice president of the student body and the presidents and vice presidents of the senior, junior, sophomore, and freshman classes, the ten-member executive council serves as the advisory board to the student body president.

It has the power to create such class organizations as deemed necessary, and submits for approval to the student legislature the various class functions, special programs, and projects.

Not a small part of executive council's job is the investigation of opportunities for student government services.

Student Legislature

Legislature is the policy-making branch of student government. Its membership is composed of representatives from each college and school in proportion to the enrollment.

Under its power to make all regulations necessary and proper to promote the general welfare of the student body, the legislature formulates many student government policies. Most major projects are authorized or inspired by legislature resolutions.

Legislature confirms or rejects all appointments made by the student body president, determines rules of freshman tradition, sponsors traditional weekends and special events, appropriates student government funds and requires reports from student committees and organizations under its jurisdiction.

Student Court

Four ex-officio members—the Summit of Mountain, ranking men's honorary; the Emperor of Sphinx, senior men's honorary; the President of AWS and the President of Mortar Board, plus three members appointed by the Student body president, compose the seven-member Student Court.

The court, not members of the legislature, elects the Chief Justice from its own membership.

Student Court performs the judicial function of student government. It certifies proposed constitutional amendments as to form and content, and functions as an important regulating branch of student government, having the power to recommend methods of dealing with violators of University regulations.

Whether you were finishing your college career or just beginning it, the school year '56-'57 was a memorable one for you.

It was a good year, in some ways a great year. It was your year.

Here, on the pages of this annual, the MONTICOLA staff presents it to you—the events you will want to remember—the record of another year at West Virginia University.

To tell this story is one thing. To tell it well is another. In the beginning, it was all fun and games. Editors drifted in, impromptu parties started, welcomed visitors added to the merriment. Deadlines were far into the future.

CUT SESSION! An early stage of work on this glossy panorama of a year at WVU is the clipping of class-section pictures.

With the passing of time, typewriters clattered, flash bulbs flared, inconvenient yet necessary retakes were made. The staff was wrapped up in its own pressured undertaking with that last deadline no longer in the comfortable future. Tedious work, yet enjoyable, as the 1957 MONTICOLA took shape.

It was a big job, handled by a competent staff. To Dr. Gainer and to all the staff who still made appearances after the staff pictures were taken, many thanks. To those who became strangers after the pictures were taken, no comment, for there is nothing to say.

Thanks are also due to those, who though not of this publication, probably without realizing it gave us moral and material support at a time when it was most needed:

. . . to Dick Phillips for pictures and for those extra-special pictures . . . to E. T. DuMetz for the religion sub-divider . . . to Home Ideas for the beauty section props . . . to Kathy Loufakis for pictures and help . . . to Glen Bengston, Stan Harris, Don Bond and Betty Boyd for interest and aid when needed . . . to Diane Fisher for artwork with a special significance . . . to Mary McDaniel for lend-lease equipment and information varification . . . to Benson Printing Company and Ralph Langreck, our contact with the printers, for everything, and for having the patience of Job . . .

Thus, another MONTICOLA is complete. Incidently, people often ask the meaning of the word Monticola. It's a combination of two good Latin words, "monti" meaning mountain, and "cola" meaning dweller, making mountain dweller, or in our modern language, Mountaineers.

So that's it. Here is the record of one school year—the 90th in the history of West Virginia University. The year of 1956-57 to be exact. That's all.

Daily Athenaeum

THE CHIEFS. Holders of the Athenaeum's top positions: Bill Stevens, editor-in-chief; Pat Coover, business manager; Sam Chapman, managing editor.

The Daily Athenaum is the means whereby a steady diet of news—campus, national and international—comes to the student each day, Tuesday through Saturday.

Produced in accordance with the best principles of journalism as practiced by America's best newspapers, the Athenaeum is in reality the laboratory project of the WVU school of journalism.

Twenty-seven reporters, all students in the school of Journalism, gather news of the campus scene each semester. Five news, two sports, two society and one literary editor combine this campus news fare with state, national and world news from the United Press wire to present the student body each morning with one of the best edited and most attractive college newspapers in the nation.

Each day comprehensive coverage of the sports world is presented, with emphasis on University athletics. Society editors are concerned with campus organizations.

Because of its small tabloid size, the Athenaeum is incapable of the depth of reporting and volume of news presentation of the typical daily. The essential information and comment are there, however, in a neat package. In charge of coordinating the paper's departments outside of the editorial page is the managing editor.

The Anthenaeum, through a well-run and lucrative advertising program, stays solvent year after year and manages to make enough money to provide the journalism school with new equipment.

There is so much . . .

One of the University student's greatest problems is the lack of sufficient time. Not one student has enough time to enjoy all the multitude of activities that interest him. Sometimes it is even hard to find time for classes. The days are filled and each night of the week there are the meetings, serving a wide number of interests.

There is so much; there are so many to satisfy.

The meetings are informal. Some meet often, some don't. Yet, these organizations do serve their purpose—members meet and share a common interest. For a few, their organizations are a focal point. Those students who accomplish the most have learned early in their careers how much studying they must do, how many activities they can be successfully active in, and, most important, how little sleep they can get by with.

Honoraries, organizations and activities. All these and more the University offers to satisfy the diversified interests of those who want to work and belong.

There is so much; for here there is something for everyone.

Religious Organizations

A number of University students are as active in their religious life at college as they were at home. For these, a number of religious organizations are provided.

And for those whose religious tendencies were more the result of circumstances rather than convictions, these organizations often provide spiritual experience.

They are very worthwhile . . . .

Life Week

Life Week began eight years ago as Family Life Week, planned and carried out predominantly by faculty.

It is now a three-day period sponsored annually by YWCA for University students to discuss current problems and topics of interest. A convocation and several informal seminars comprise the program. In past years, Life Week has covered the topics "Dating, Courtship and Marriage," "Maturity," "Building a Better Understanding," "How Practical Are Principles," and "Who Am I?"

Life Week of 1957 directed the attention of the campus community toward the implications of Christianity in our modern culture. The Rev. Alvin L. Kershaw, prominent New England theologian, expert on modern jazz, and an adviser for the national YMCA, was the convocation speaker and Life Week Leader.

Student Leadership Conference

The purpose of the Student Leadership Conference is threefold:

1—to train leaders,

2—to become aware of campus problems and offer possible solutions,

3—to exchange ideas and points of view about organizational procedures and objectives.

The conference, held every spring at Jackson's Mill, is composed of about 110 delegates who have been sponsored by a campus organization, and is pervaded at all times by an informal atmosphere. There is much interest and determination exhibited by each person present, and work is interrupted frequently by enjoyable social activities, giving each delegate leaving the conference the feeling of having accomplishd something worthwhile and having had fun doing it.

Sororities

Women's Panhellenic Council

Composed of a junior and a senior from each social sorority—each girl serves two years—purpose of council is to supervise and regulate rushing and to act as a forum for the discussion of matters of interest to sororities—established recently a Junior Panhellenic Council which is comprised of two representatives from each pledge class—responsible for booklet issued each girl going out for rushing—sponsors Women's Pan—pledges of each sorority plan decorations—participate with Council of Fraternity Presidents in Community Chest Drive—aided Salvation Army by ringing Christmas bells in business district—sponsors a foster child—set up exchange dinners for sororities—annually offers a trophy to the sorority achieving highest over-all average.

At meetings, members discuss problems of interest to sororities. Sometimes they solve these problems. Sometimes they do not. But they have fun.

Fraternities

Interfraternity Council

The purpose of the Interfraternity Council can best be explained by the preamble to its Constitution: "United in the belief that among social fraternities there are common problems beyond the scope of individual action—that the fullest benefits from the fraternity system can be achieved only by common action—that fraternities have an affirmative responsibility to co-operate with West Virginia University and to further its interests—members of the Council are derived from the twenty social fraternities on the campus—each fraternity shall be represented by its chapter representatives; a senior and a junior representative"—special projects this year have included a unified pledge week and Interfraternity United Fund—annual events sponsored by IFC are Men's Pan—Intermural athletics—blankets presented to graduating seniors on the basketball team—bridge and debate tournaments—faculty advisor is Professor White—IFC was organized by and succeeded the Council of Fraternity Presidents in 1956.

MELLOW MUSIC. Duke Ellington and his band played for IFC-sponsored Men's Pan, a campus tradition and highlight.

1957 Monticola
West Virginia University
Morgantown, West Virginia

Dear Monticola Staff:

We at PLAYBOY truly appreciate the honor of having been asked to select the Yearbook Queen for West Virginia University.

With an honor generally goes some responsibility, and, in this case, it has been a particularly tough one. There is no question about it--West Virginia has no shortage of campus beauty this year. It was not an easy task to pick out five finalists from all the others, and then to pick out one of these as queen. No easy task at all.

However, after some lengthy debate, we have selected Janice Sickle as the winner. Long live the queen!

For the four members of her court, we have picked Joanne Stout, Peggy Zuber, Ruth Cuppet and Sally Casey.

All of the candidates whose photographs were submitted to us could easily qualify as queens themselves. In every instance, the girls are appealing, attractive, charming and graceful. You really gave us a tough job, and we hope that we've done right.

Thanks again for inviting us to judge this contest.

Sincerely yours,

PLAYBOY MAGAZINE

The Monticola Salutes . . .

Each year a number of students are chosen by consensus of opinion as being outstanding on campus.

Here they are recognized. We feel no comment is necessary, for these choices are obvious.

Behind the choices are a great deal of interest in campus matters, fairly decent grades, and long hours of extra service. For these they are honored . . .

. . . and so four years draw to a close.

The long awaited graduation day has come. Though happy to be "getting out at last" you look back over the past years and find graduation infinitely less desirable. A strange sadness prevails at the thought of leaving. You remember only the good, forget only the bad, and have only the world before you.

The characteristics . . . the good ones, the bad ones, those few of interest but little import . . . are all a part of the University. Perhaps you are the first to criticize them, but you are also definitely the first to defend them. When asked if you like the University you say "yes," but are somewhat vague about why. Now you come to fully realize that the features you criticize and defend are the features you revere.

The black cap and gown make you feel the heat. You begin to wonder if the cold winter walks to eight o'clock classes ever really happened. And it seemed a long walk to Mountainlair. But now it seems the longest walk will be across the stage to pick up your diploma.

Your eyes wander and sweep the faces that surround you. These are the people that have been with you through four years of college.

Some of them you know. Some you do not. Some are your closest friends. Some are not. So be it. While here at the University, some were considered outstanding and laden with honors. Some were not. So be this also. It all seems unimportant now, for, as when freshmen, everyone takes their place on an equal plane. And as you look, all the faces blend into just another set of features in a black and white mosaic of tassels and heads.

This is the end and the beginning. The end of a long hard struggle and the beginning of a new one of a different kind.

The time has come. Graduation. You hear a talk on the responsibilities of youth; a handshake, a diploma, and a way of life ends.

Review of the Season

ART LEWIS
Head Football Coach

Some observers chalked it up as a disappointing season for the Gold and Blue. Others talked about the "end of the golden era of West Virginia football." Still others advocated hanging the coach and starting all over again.

They say that success or failure is only a matter of degrees; that was the case at Mountaineer Field in 1956. West Virginia's record was a "disappointing" 6-4, far off from the glorious 8-2 season of the year before.

Coach Art Lewis had mended a lineup riddled from losses by graduation and had still managed to maintain much of West Virginia football prestige but after all, "he lost four games."

No one considers the fact that while dropping four games to teams—two of whom performed in major bowl games—the Mountaineers won the Southern Conference for the year and also managed to take the measure of six difficult opponents themselves.

The Pitt game is one that might easily have been on the other side of the won-loss column had it not been for a couple of costly fumbles. Syracuse, minus Jimmy Brown, might have easily succumbed but the great All-American could not be denied. Penn State, riding the high horse after whipping the champions at Ohio State, was still up in the clouds for West Virginia and even ack-ack fire couldn't have brought them down. Miami, undefeated at the time of the game, had too much at stake to let up and West Virginia was down four games in the loss column simply because they were "out-elemented" but not "out-fought."

The game with Texas was the "finest hour." The Longhorns, long respected in pigskin circles around the country, watched Bob Snider send them reeling with one swipe of his toe.

Little Furman was the toughest nut that the Gold and Blue gridders had to crack. The Hurricanes held on grimly and a single touchdown was the final margin of victory.

George Washington, with national ranking et al, was undefeated until they left Mountaineer Field.

Defense was the big bright spot in the year's review. But where defense shone, offense tarnished. The plunging, driving fullbacks—Krutko and Whipkey—were tremendous but the halfbacks couldn't get away and the passing attack was infected with frequent interceptions and incompletions.

Joe Kopnisky, the honorary captain, participated in the East-West Shrine game at San Francisco and did a bang up job in the defensive end slot. Then he moved to the Senior Bowl where he set up his team's only touchdown with the recovery of a fumble.

Bill Underdonk, senior tackle, participated in the Senior Bowl and was named as the outstanding lineman for the North stars. He signed a professional contract with the Cleveland Browns. The Browns had drafted him the previous season.

Five made the Sports Writer's All-Conference eleven—Howley, Nicely, Krutko, Lathey and Underdonk. Kopnisky made another conference selection.

THIRTY-FIVE CENTS
WEST VIRGINIA
PITT

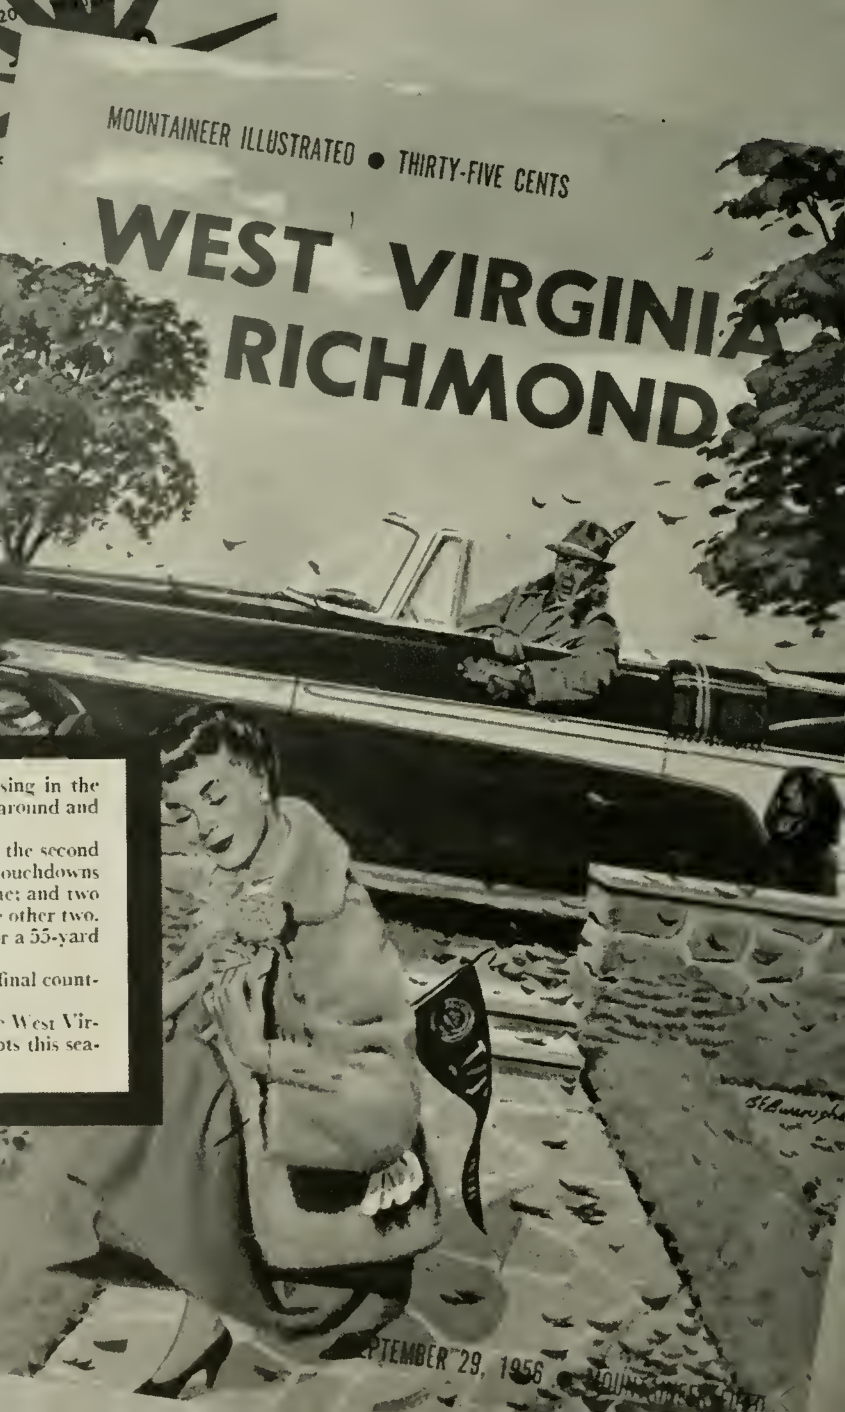
Acting more like scared kittens than Panthers, Pitt stumbled into a 14-13 victory over a very impressive Mountaineer team in the season's lid-lifter at Morgantown.

The Mountaineers were first to score when Joe Kopnisky covered a Pitt fumble. A pass from Trimarki to Kopnisky put the ball on the one-foot line, and on the next play Trimarki scored on a sneak. This was the only score of the first half.

In the third quarter, the roof fell in with Pitt counting both of its touchdowns. The Panthers took advantage of Mountaineer fumbles on both occasions and only had a short distance to go for their scores.

West Virginia threatened again and again but just couldn't seem to get the push to go that final short yardage.

The Gold and Blue led in every statistic but scoring, and completely out-classed the "top-rated" Panthers. Coach Art Lewis noted, "We beat them but the score beat us."



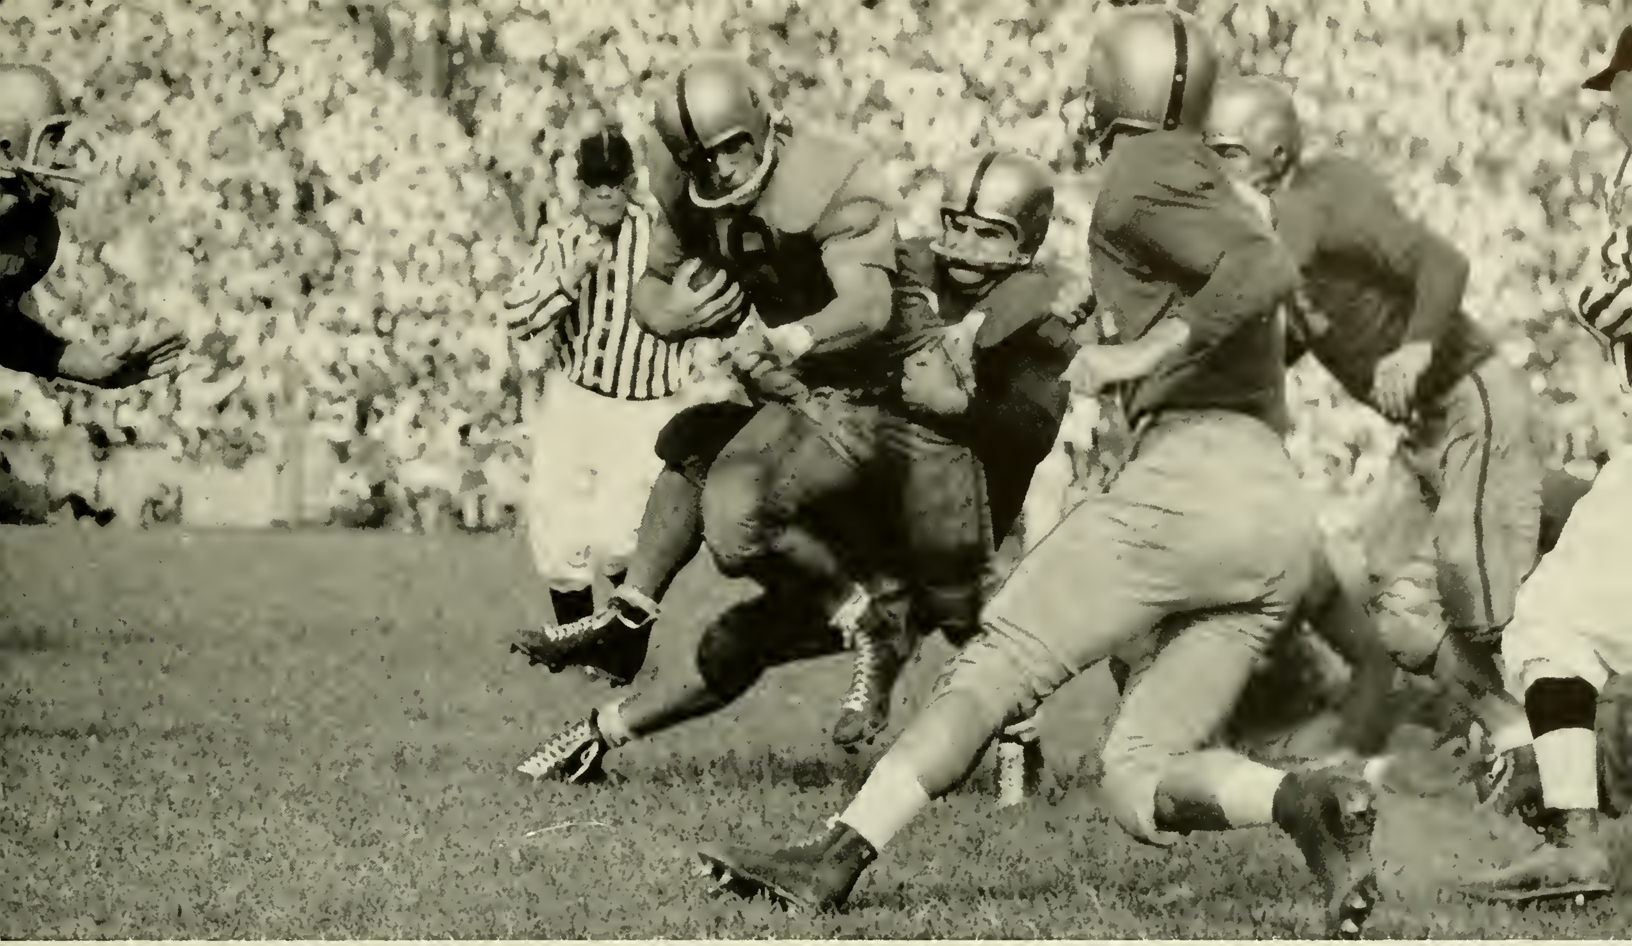
After pushing the Panthers all over the gridiron and losing in the opener, the Mountaineers pushed the Richmond Spiders all around and came off with their first victory of the season.

Neither team was able to score in the first quarter but in the second period, West Virginia got the machine rolling. Three quick touchdowns resulted. A pass from Trimarki to Kopnisky was good for one; and two runs by sophomore fullback Noel Whipkey accounted for the other two.

In the second half Richmond's Bobby Riggs broke away for a 55-yard sprint to score the only Spider touchdown.

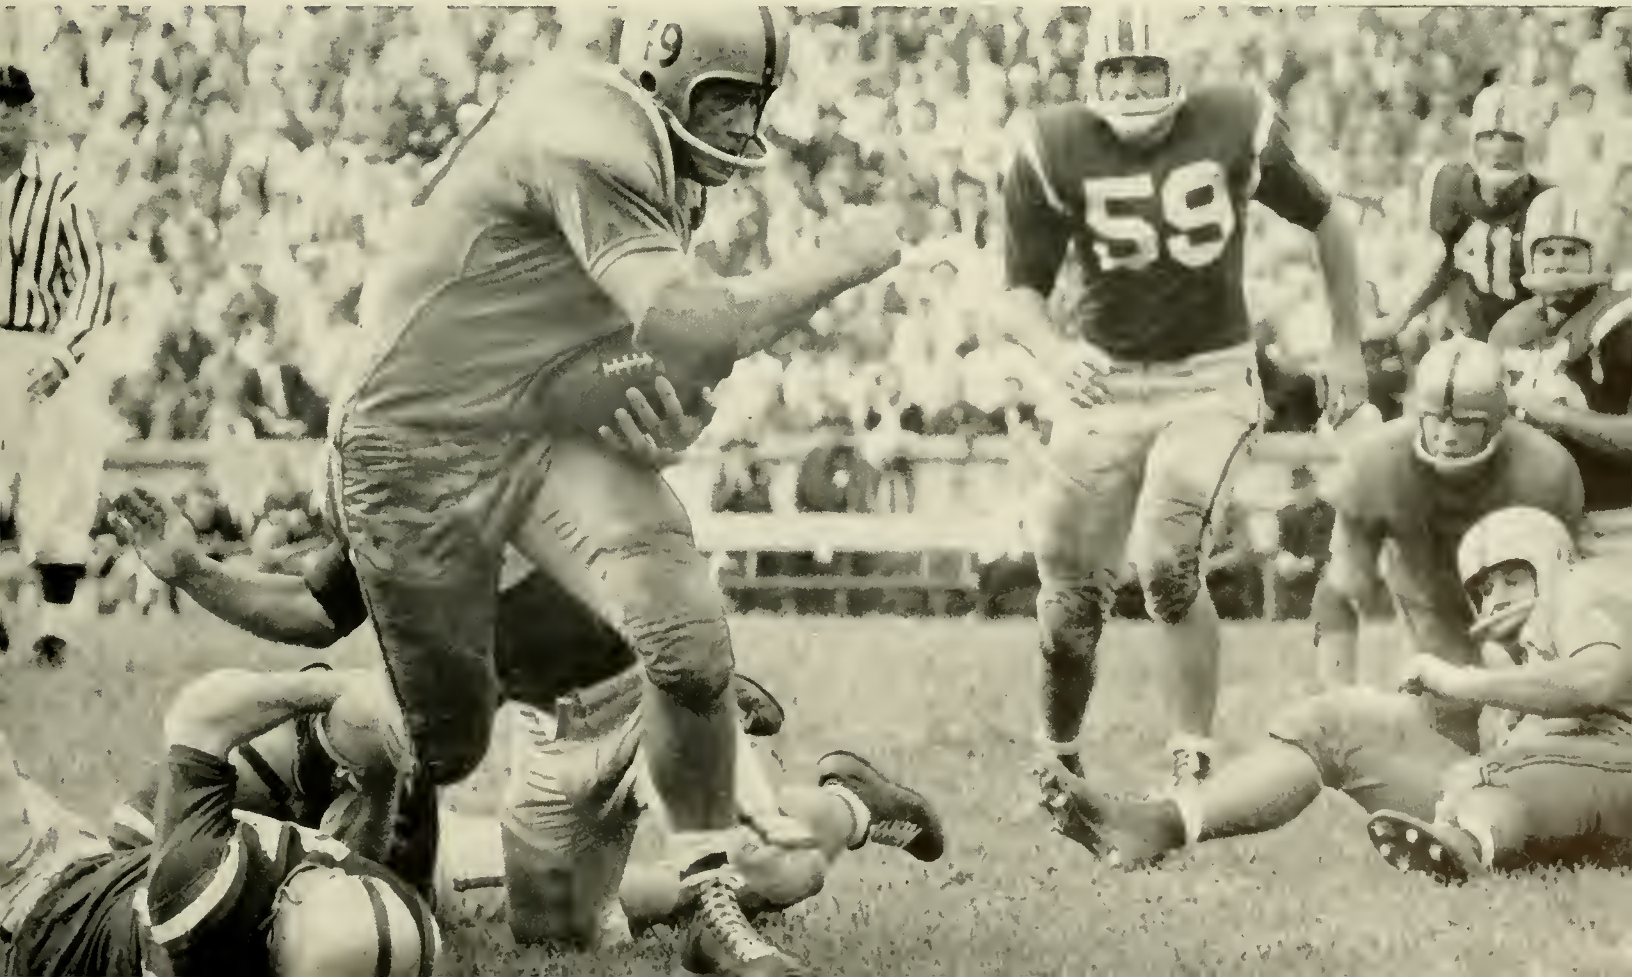
Rabbitts and Szuch—on a great bootleg play—added the final counters for the Mountaineers.

Coach Art Lewis noted with some disappointment that the West Virginia kickers had only made one extra point in seven attempts this season and promised some work on this point.



West Virginia 13 · Pitt 14

West Virginia 30 · Richmond 6



With their first win of the year at the expense of Richmond under their belt, the Mountaineers moved into the Southwestern Conference to meet the always-powerful Texas Longhorns. It represented the first trip into the Southland for the "Lewismen."

Played under the lights at Austin, the game was in many respects one of the finest of the year.

Krutko managed the only touchdown for the Gold and Blue with a diving plunge for short yardage. Bob Snider tried the all important extra point and the pigskin split the uprights.

Texas pushed across a score but missed on their extra point try.

Twice at later stages in the contest, the Longhorns pushed goalward but the stout linemen of the Gold and Blue were able to contain them: twice in unbelievable goal line stands; twice within the two yard line.

It was a sterling victory for the Mountaineers, proving once and for all that defense is not at all passe in this high-powered offensive time of football.

Meeting one of the East's top teams and their third dangerous opponent in four weeks, the Mountaineers found Brown the password of the day.

The Orangemen's first marker resulted when an intercepted pass put the ball on the West Virginia 18-yard line. All-American Jim Brown went the final yardage to score. The Gold and Blue battled right back and tied the game on a sensational catch of an Alex Szuch pass by end John Bowles. The try for point was blocked and the score was tied at 6-6. Both teams countered again before the half and the score was tied at 13-13 at the halftime.

In the third quarter, with Brown providing most of the punch, the New Yorkers moved 65 yards to paydirt. A Mountaineer fumble later in the half gave the Orangemen another six points.

West Virginia, going via the air for most of the route, scored again on a hand-off from Trimarki to Snider three yards out. The effort was short by seven points.

An underdog Indian team gave the mighty Gold and Blue a scare as the Gold and Blue could only manage a narrow 20-13 victory despite the fact they were heavily favored to romp.

Snider went over early in the game from nine yards out to put West Virginia in the lead. William and Mary came right back with a score to cut the WVU margin to 7-6.

West Virginia had to fight a rash of penalties as much as an "inspired" William and Mary line for the remainder of the half. Halftime saw no change in the score.

With but a minute gone in the third quarter, Whipkey scored West Virginia's second touchdown and Trimarki scored later in the period to give the Mountaineers a 20-6 margin. William and Mary scored their final points after recovering a Mountaineer fumble on the thirteen-yard line.

Just "too pooped to pop" might be the term applied to the Mountaineers as they took the field against an inspired Nittany Lion team.

The previous week, the Lions had knocked proud Ohio State off of their lofty perch and they were being acclaimed as one of the finest teams in the East.

Led by their crafty quarterback Milt Plum and the running of Karl Kane, the Lions moved to a quick 16-0 lead in the first half on touchdowns by Kane and Jacks; a safety, and two extra points by Plum.

West Virginia, digesting the halftime words of Coach Art Lewis, came back on the field a new team. In the second half of play they held the Lion virtually at bay.

Larry Krutko, who gained 120 yards in 20 carries, scored the only touchdown. Mickey Trimarki was ineffective in the air as he could only complete two of sixteen passes.

Offensive statistics showed Penn State gaining 141 yards to 236 for the Gold and Blue. State just had "too much, too early!"

The Colonials moved into Morgantown with a national ranking and an undefeated record in seven games. They were looking for the win that they almost acquired at West Virginia's expense the previous season, when the Mountaineers had managed only to squeak it out in the closing moments, 13-7.

From the opening kickoff, it was evident that West Virginia was the power on the field this particular afternoon. They held the Colonials' ground attack virtually motionless and contained their air game with equal agility.

Missing the services of Mickey Trimarki, who was injured in the early moments of play, the Mountaineers uncorked the air arms of Alex Szuch and Dick Longfellow to take the command and hold it throughout the game. Szuch completed three of six attempts for 72 yards and Longfellow completed two of five for 34 yards.

The final statistics left little to the imagination. The Mountaineer forward wall had been the margin of victory. They held the GW offense to just 76 yards total yardage while the Mountaineer rushers piled up 257 yards on the ground.

The Keydets' "order of the day" seemed to be "Beat West Virginia" and the military men tried their best to carry it out despite superior odds.

In the end, it was only a final period sprint by Noel Whipkey from five yards out and an extra point by Snider that gave West Virginia the narrow advantage at the final gun.

A fired-up group of Keydets managed to thwart the Mountaineers at almost every turn as they tried their best to upset the percentages and come up with a victory.

Alex Szuch passed to end Bruce McClung in the opening period for the initial score and the Gold and Blue took a shaky 7-0 lead.

No more scoring occured until VMI countered late in the third quarter on a three-yard plunge. The try for point was low and West Virginia maintained a 7-6 edge.

Whipkey made it official when he countered on this five yard plunge and West Virginia indicated that they had no plans of losing their Southern Conference supremacy.

The only spectacular thing at Mountaineer Field this afternoon was the crowning of the Homecoming Queen.

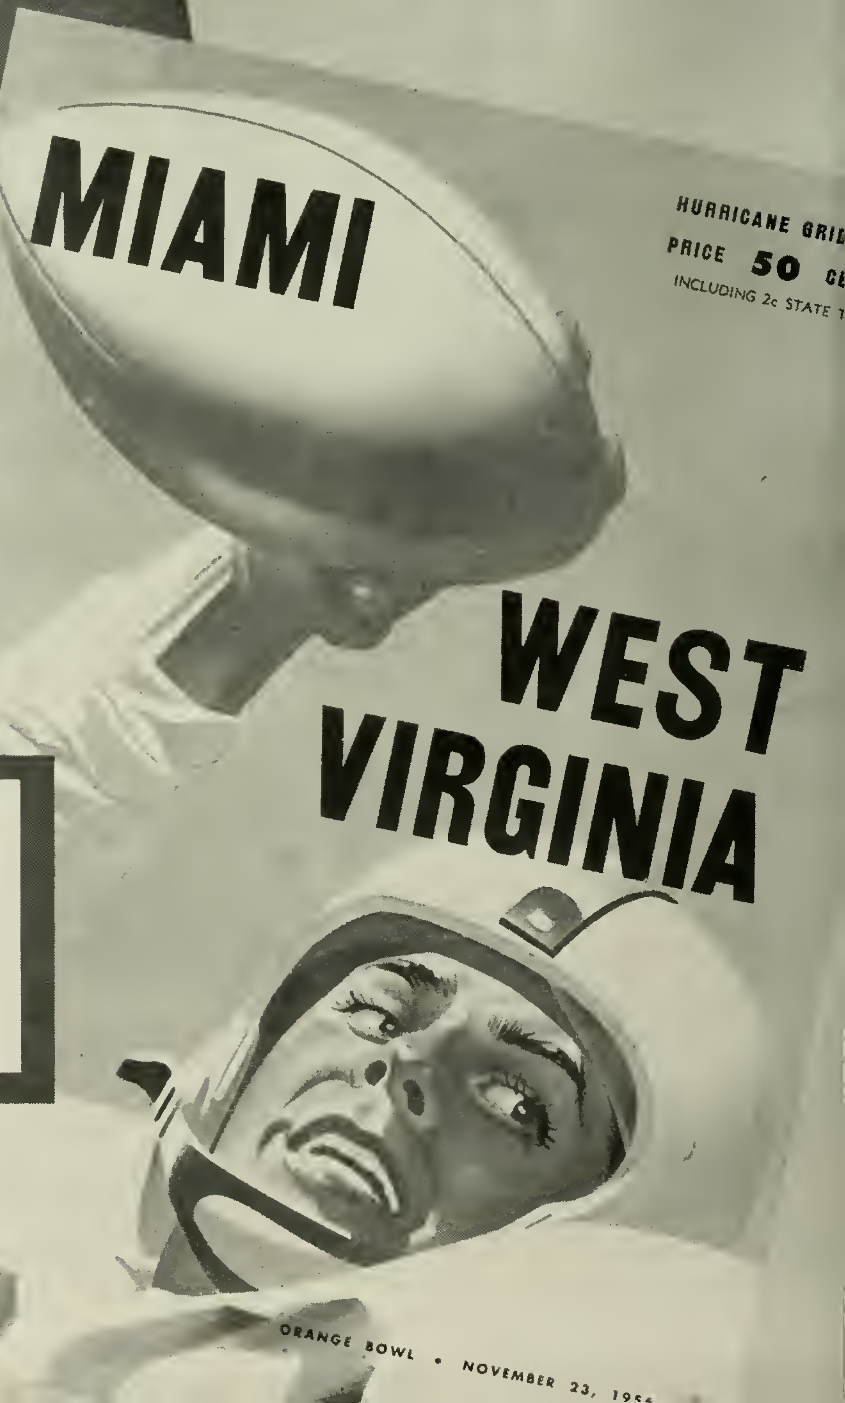
West Virginia and Furman collided on the gridiron, to be sure, but that could hardly have been considered as a spectacular battle.

The game, supposedly a breather for the Gold and Blue, turned out to be a real headache. Furman was finding their way into the Mountaineer backfield like they had a key. Their line was outcharging, outfighting and outhustling the men of West Virginia to the point of absurdity.

The Mountaineers fumbled and penalized themselves out of almost every scoring opportunity; and had it not been for a second period pass from Dick Longfellow to Sammy Sizemore, the results might have been more damaging.

Furman's drive to the 17-yard line of the Gold and Blue was sidetracked by a holding penality and the Southerners couldn't get going again.

The win clinched the Southern Conference crown for West Virginia for the fourth straight year.



The Hurricanes turned out to be a great "big blow" to West Virginia football fortunes. Miami, for the first time in 54 games, managed to hold the powerful Mountaineers scoreless.

West Virginia's line was the only bright spot in a dim picture. It held the Hurricanes three different times after they had penetrated within the ten-yard line. Miami's scoring included: touchdowns by Scarnecchia and Hefti, a field goal and a safety.

Miami sportswriters were high in their praise for the battle-weary Monnaineers. Thirteen players wore the Gold and Blue for the last time. They were: Joe Kopnisky, Barry Balke, Bill Underdonk, Ron Klim, Gene Lathey, Dick Nichols, Jerry Urda, Walt Beene, Jack Rabbits, Paul Shepherd, Bob Snider, Ray Borst and Max Cosper.

Basketball in Review

Twenty-five wins and five losses, an All-American Forward and another Southern Conference championship; what more could you want? (Save a victory in the NCAA tourney!)

West Virginia basketball fortunes in 1956-57 were at a peak. The team opened rather unimpressively with a 71-47 victory over little VMI. They followed with a resounding victory over Florida State in which Rod Hundley broke Mark Workman's West Virginia scoring record. They then went on to administer losses to Washington and Lee and Penn State.

Moving into the southland for the first time, the Mountaineers played Mississippi Southern in the opening round of the Birmingham Classic and hit the hundred mark for the first time, with a merry 105-69 rout. Duke was the final round opposition and the Gold and Blue disposed of the Blue Devils, but not without a fight, as Don Vincent's last second corner shot told the tale.

Richmond was the second five to fall by a score of a hundred or more as the Mountaineers "webbed" the Spiders, 105-74. Powerful North Carolina State visited the Field House just before the Christmas recess, but Santa hadn't left any presents there for them. The Wolfpack went back to Carolina "dragging their tails" after absorbing one of the worst defeats in their history, 107-79.

Raleigh, North Carolina and the Dixie Classic was the next stop of the Mountaineer express, riding on the crest of an eight-game streak and rated third in the nation—behind only Kansas and North Carolina—by the International News Service. Duke made the first round bitter with a 73-67 win. Utah made the second round sour with a 83-66 win. Finally, Iowa made the whole trip obnoxious by administering a 79-76 licking. The Mountaineers left Raleigh determined to urge a boycott of Sir Walter's cigarettes—coupons or not!

Things went a little better after Carolina. Furman felt the first brunt of revenge as they absorbed a 110-95 licking. In this particular game, Rod Hundley conquered practically the only West Virginia record that he hadn't already established when he scored 54 points in a single game!

Pitt, Villanova, William and Mary, Furman a second time, Virginia Tech (a tougher battle than expected: 59-

54) and Saint John's of Brooklyn (who were nothing like the Dodgers, losing 105-72) all fell before the onslaught of a determined Mountaineer squad.

VMI went tumbling for a second time and the West Virginian's moved to the Madison Square Garden floor for their annual visit in the big city. Jimmy Nidds gave the Hot Rod nightmares but the Mountaineers won over a stubborn New York University team, 83-77. Richmond and George Washington followed in the win column.

And then there was Penn State! Eleven straight opponents had been met with and vanquished since the Raleigh disaster and the Gold and Blue went to State College, Pa. confident that the Lion would not be roaring this particular trip. It must have been the old State College "jinx" or something else, but the Nittany Lion caused a little havoc in the Mountaineer's "lair" as he administered a surprise 80-65 loss to the "proud ones" from Morgantown.

Pitt got the punishment for State as they caught the Gold and Blue on the wrong night. Don Hennon and Rod Hundley dueled it out again and for the second time; Hot Rod winning out again as the Mountaineers made merry with the Panthers, 107-93. William and Mary was an easy 80-57 decision as the season drew toward a close.

It took a talent show to put Rod out of action! In three seasons, despite a knee operation, a working over by a Pittsburgh "Hachet man" and numerous bumps and bruises, the Hot Rodney had not missed an entire varsity game. The night prior to the George Washington game—the season's finale in the nation's capitol—Rod MC'd a campus talent show and the flu bug got him. Without their main artillery, the Mountaineers had a little trouble with George Washington and just did subdue them, 77-75.

Richmond and the Southern Conference brought another challenge to the Gold and Blue, trying for their third tourney win in a row. Davidson was strictly no match for the fast racing Mountaineers and they easily advanced into the semifinals against a Richmond team playing on their home court. Richmond couldn't turn the trick either, however, and the Morgantown men moved forward another notch to encounter Washington and Lee for the championship. For a quarter it was close and then the Generals had to commit their reserves and watch the West Virginians merrily romp to their third straight SC title. A pale, drawn Rod Hundley was not his magnificent self but still managed to be impressive. With Lloyd Sharrar, the big 6 foot 10 inch pivot man, he made the all-tourney team. Sharrar nudged out the Rod for the Most Valuable Player Award—the first time in three years that Hundley had not won the award.

DON'T BOTHER WITH THE REBOUND, KISH, ROD SAYS IT'S IN! The Richmond man holding might well have been whispering this as Rod goes up for his famous one-hand jump shot.

ARE WE GRACEFFUL, OR ARE WE GRACEFUL? Here Don Vincent and Penn State friend play at the ballet bit in the Field House.

NO, WE'RE NOT AS BIG AS ART LEWIS' GUARDS, BUT. Joedy Gardner, Clayce Kishbaugh and Don Vincent pose while our cameraman catches them for posterity.

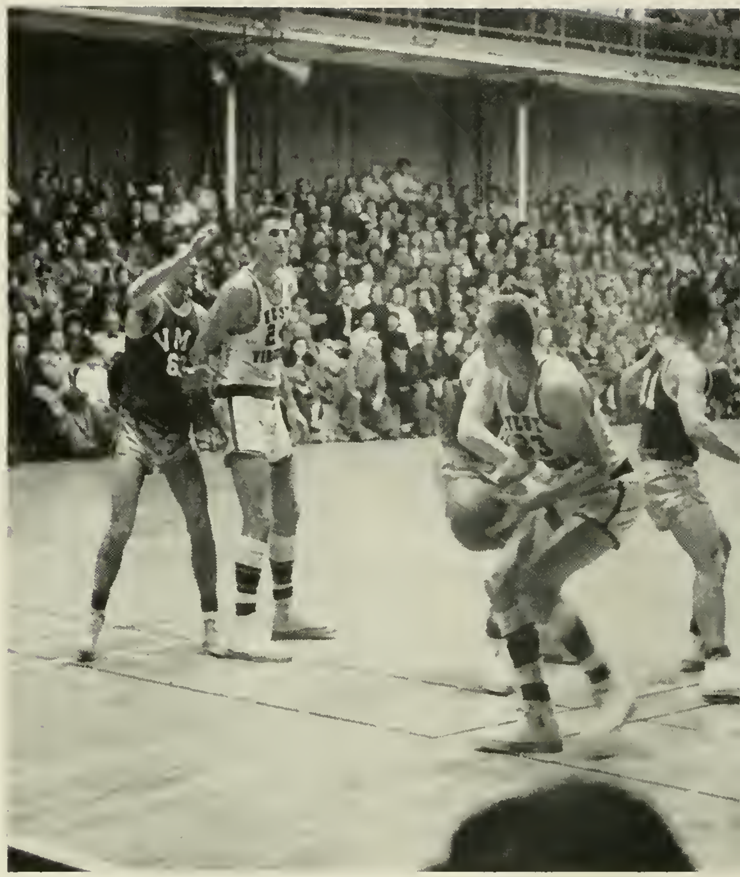
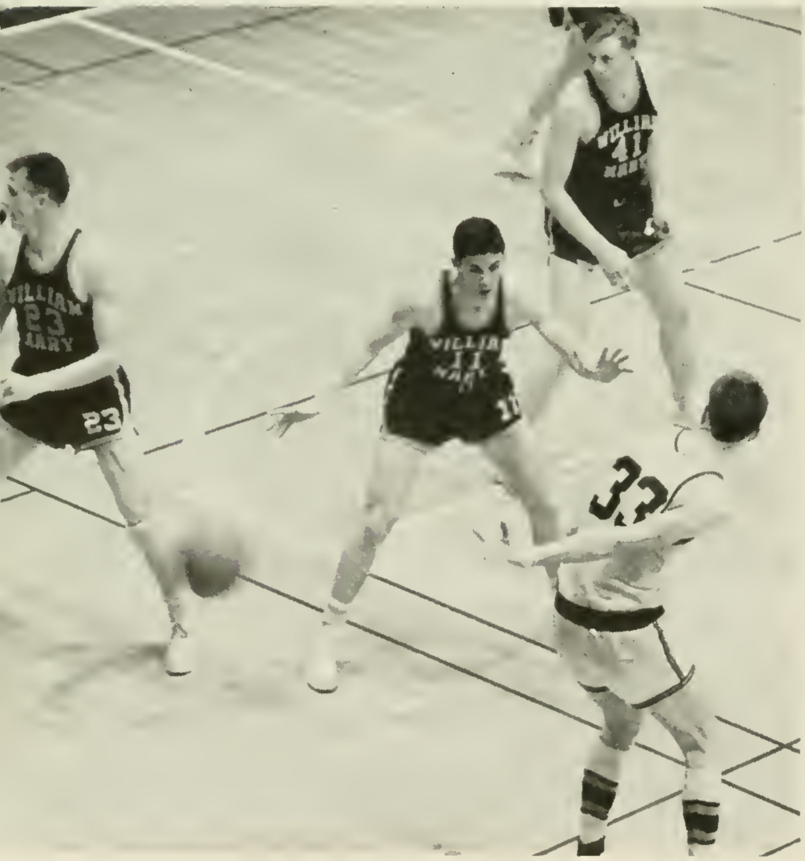
On to the garden and then on to Philadelphia to meet North Carolina. Canasius was to be the New York opponent—the winner almost assured of meeting North Carolina in Philadelphia. But too many Mountaineers packed for Philadelphia and not enough for New York. The Gold and Blue were ineffective in the garden and suffered a disappointing setback. Thus ended a brilliant season.

Rod Hundley made first team All-American for the Associated Press, the United Press and Look magazine. He established a new West Virginia and Field House scoring record. He left a blazing trail of glory behind him and kids all over West Virginia trying to spin the ball on their finger or take it around behind them as they drive in for a layup. Sharrar showed that he had the mettle to follow in the Rod's footsteps. Kishbaugh was great from the outside. Vincent proved that he had "arrived" as a polished performer. Smith, the sophomore sensation, surprised everyone and delighted Coach Fred Schaus. Gardner, Retton, Cloussin, Schertzinger and Barnette were effective reserves. What with West, Akers, Goode and company coming up from the freshman squad—who knows what peaks might be sealed in 1957-58?



WHAT SHOULD I DO? PASS TO LLOYD OR TAKE THE JUMPER? Rod Hundley seems to be contemplating as he holds the ball against VMI.



I'D SWEAR HE'S PASSING THAT BEHIND HIS BACK. The William and Mary guard looks a little befuddled as Rod opens up with one of his behind-the-back passes.

ELECTRICITY MAY BE THE DRIVER. One day your car may speed along an electric super-highway, its speed and steering automatically controlled by electronic devices embedded in the road. Highways will be made safe—by electricity! No traffic jams . . . no collisions . . . no driver fatigue.

Power companies build for your new electric living

Your air conditioner, television and other appliances are just the beginning of a new electric age.

Your food will cook in seconds instead of hours. Lamps will cut on and off automatically to fit the lighting needs in your rooms. Television "screens" will hang on the walls. An electric heat pump will use outside air to cool your house in summer, heat it in winter.

You will need and have much more electricity than you have today. Right now America's more than 400 independent electric light and power companies are planning and building to have twice as much electricity for you by 1965. These companies can have this power ready when you need it because they don't have to wait for an act of Congress—or for a cent of tax money—to build the plants.

The same experience, imagination and enterprise that electrified the nation in a single lifetime are at work shaping your electric future. That's why in the years to come, as in the past, you will benefit most when you are served by independent companies like this one.

URETHANE'S FUTURE

Mobay Chemical Company—heir to a rich tradition—is the blending of two names great in the chemical industry; Monsanto and Bayer. To Mobay, both companies have contributed personnel, technical skill, resources and knowledge built up through decades of chemical and plastics manufacturing experience.

Bayer, founded in 1863 in Germany, used dyestuffs as the basis for building a business which now includes the manufacture of some 12,000 different products. Mansanto, organized 38 years later in the United States, today is among the largest chemical companies in this country. Endowed with the spirit and strength of its forebears, Mobay has an unequalled opportunity for service and growth.

Soon, Mobay's plant on the banks of the Ohio River will become the source of two streams of chemical raw materials which will flow into factories in many parts of the nation. There the chemicals will merge to form urethane—the touch-stone of a whole new segment of American technology.
